NSS organises free medical camp and seminar on Post Covid
Health Syndrome
November 23, 2021

The NSS in association with Lions Club organised a free medical camp in Thunchath Ezhuthachan Malayalam University. The health camp was attended by about 101 such as faculties, non-teaching staff, students, scholars and public.

The camp was organised on November 23, 2021, in an effort to provide basic medical facilities to the poor people. Besides free medical check-up, medicines were also provided to the people free of cost. We advertised this in media so that people living in and around the places can also come for the consultancy. We are providing them with all kinds of treatment including free medicines, so that it shows a tie-up between NSS and civil society. It is our duty to keep our people together and safe," Vice Chancellor of the University Dr. Anil Vallathol told in the inaugural address and reiterated that they would like this to continue in future and help the people in need.

Dr. Joju Pompsom (Chief Consultant, Respiratory Medicines, Kerala Health Department) addressed a special lecture on “Post Covid Health Conditions”. ‘It is very essential to observe Covid SOP, and vaccinate citizens, to reduce the impact of Covid and prevent future spread of this pandemic’.

Dr. Javed Anees (Rehabilitation Specialist, Tirur) was elated by this free medical camp and mentioned that ‘Pandemic has brought back the age-old Indian hygienic tradition of Namaste instead of handshake’.
